

POLITICIANS SEARCH MESSAGE OF PRESIDENT FOR HINT AS TO HIS FUTURE POLITICAL PLANS

Message Longest One Ever Sent by Coolidge to Congress—
Taxes Should Not Be Reduced More Than $225,000,000,
Advises Leave Tariff Alone and Continue Economy

By George R. Holmes
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—A satisfying picture of American conditions—peaceful and prosperous—was presented to the new Congress today by President Coolidge in his annual message.

He accompanied it with recommendations covering a variety of subjects, ranging from tax reduction to strengthening the Navy. Today's message was the longest Mr. Coolidge has transmitted to Congress during his five years in the presidency, but the politicians searched it in vain for some hint as to his future political plans.

"It is gratifying to report," said Mr. Coolidge, "that for the fourth consecutive year the state of the Union in general is good. We are at peace. The country as a whole has had a prosperity never exceeded. Wages are at their highest range; employment is plentiful. Some parts of agriculture and industry have lagged; some localities have suffered from storm and flood. But such losses have been absorbed without serious detriment to our great economic structure."

Outstanding among the President's recommendations to the new Congress was his request that the Navy be immediately strengthened—a move which he opposed last session on the eve of the ill-fated Geneva Naval Conference. Referring to the failure at Geneva, the President said:

"We need a very substantial sea armament. It (the Navy) needs submarines . . . airplane carriers and a material addition to its force of cruisers. We can plan for the future and begin a moderate building program."

The President was quick to deny, however, that this meant any competitive arming. Even had Japan, Great Britain and the United States been able to agree upon naval limitation at Geneva, he said, it still would have been necessary to build additional ships to round out the American Navy.

"The failure to agree," he said, "should not cause us to build either more or less than we otherwise should."

"This country has put away the Old World policy of competitive armaments. We should enter on no competition. But we should refrain from no needful program. It should be known to all that our military power holds no threat of aggrandizement."

"Wherever our flag goes the rights of humanity increase."

In many of his recommendations, the President found himself retracing the familiar paths of previous messages.

He dwelt at considerable length on the continued need for governmental economy; he gave his "complete support" to the Treasury's tax reduction program of not to exceed $225,000,000; he reiterated his opposition to the McNary-Haugen Farm bill, which he vetoed last session; he again advised that the government get out of the shipping business; he warned against any tinkering with the tariff; bespoke the government's determination to enforce prohibition to the best of its ability; approved the Boulder Dam project; recommended the enactment of an anti-lynching bill; endorsed railroad consolidations; asked for Congressional authority to intervene in coal strikes; favored creation of a Federal department of education with a place in the cabinet; and urged Congress to deal cautiously and carefully with the problem of flood control.

Concerning flood control, the President declared that "it is necessary to look upon this emergency as a national disaster," but he advised Congress against rushing headlines into any great national program.

"Legislation this session," he said, "should be confined to our principal and most pressing problem, the lower Mississippi, considering tributaries only so far as they materially affect the main flood problem."

He added significantly that "the recognized needs of the Mississippi should not be made a vehicle for carrying other projects," a rather pointed reference to the danger of pork-barrel appropriations growing out of this problem.

The mid-western agriculturists were again disappointed in that part of the President's message dealing with farm relief. While Mr. Coolidge reiterated his opposition to "any price fixing schemes" of agricultural relief, he opposed no specific program of his own other than to generally recommend that there be created a Federal board to assist in promoting co-operative marketing, and providing for a revolving fund for the necessary financing.

"The past year has seen a marked improvement in the general condition of agriculture," he said. "Any sound and workable proposal to help the farmer will have the support of the government . . . but . . . government price-fixing is known to be unsound and bound to result in disaster."

"It is impossible to provide by law for an assured success and prosperity for all those engaged in farming."

The President's Message in Tabloid Form

National Defense—Congress should authorize moderate Navy building program of submarines, airplane carriers and cruisers.

Farm Relief—Agricultural conditions are improved. Will support "any sound proposal," but none involving price-fixing.

Flood Control—Congress should proceed cautiously, confining action this session to lower Mississippi Valley.

Tax Reduction—Taxes can be safely reduced not more than $225,000,000.

Government Economy—Continue it rigorously.

Merchant Marine—Public operation unsuccessful. Government should get out of the business.

Tariff—Don't tinker with it. Inland Navigation—Boulder Dam should be authorized.

Prohibition—All citizens should obey the law; government will enforce it to best of its ability.

Coal—President should be empowered to intervene in strikes. Railroad consolidation—For further efficiency railroads must consolidate.

Education—Should have separate department and seat in the cabinet.

Foreign Relations—At peace with all nations and hope to remain so.

The Negro—Should be protected by anti-lynching bill.

Muscle Shoals—Should be disposed of.

Aviation—Should be promoted commercially, and particularly air mail service between countries of western hemisphere.

The principle problem in the farm situation remains the crop surplus, he said. The remedy for this condition he thought, lies in reduced acreage and better marketing facilities rather than in specific legislative steps.

Mr. Coolidge dismissed prohibition in one paragraph by calling upon all citizens to obey the Eighteenth Amendment and giving a brief description of how the government is endeavoring to enforce the law, concluding with:

"The Federal authorities propose to discharge their obligation for enforcement to the full extent of their ability."

Foreign relations were also dealt with briefly. He spoke of the differences with Mexico, and of the dispatch of marines to China and to Nicaragua. Concerning Mexico, he said:

"A firm adherence to our rights and a scrupulous respect for the sovereignty of Mexico . . . coupled with patience and forbearance, it is hoped, will resolve all our differences without interfering with the friendly relationship between the two governments."

"In general our relations with other countries can be said to have improved within the year."

"Our country has made much progress," he concluded. "But it has taken and will continue to take much effort. Competition will be keen, the temptation to selfishness and arrogance will be severe, the provocations to deal harshly with weaker people will be many. All of these are embraced in the opportunity for true greatness. They will be over-balanced by cooperation, by generosity, and by a spirit of neighborly kindness. The forces of the universe are taking humanity in that direction. In doing good, in walking humbly, in sustaining its own people, in ministering to other nations, America will work out its own mighty destiny."

Prosecution Prepares To Strike in Rebuttal

MAYS LANDING, N. J., Dec. 6 (I. N. S.)—The prosecution prepared today to strike in rebuttal against Mrs. Margaret Lillendahl when the cross-examination of the widow, charged with killing her husband, Dr. William Lillendahl, was concluded.

Mrs. Lillendahl has told the jury of five women and seven men she did not murder the aged physician. Her co-defendant, Willis Beach, neighbor of the Lillendahls in South Vineland, has entered his denial of the crime in the court record.

The widow, after five and a half hours on the witness stand, faced the jury and the suavely persistent questioning of Assistant Prosecutor S. Cameron Hinkle again today. The prosecutor's hope was to bring out what the State will contend are variations in her story and that of Beach.

LATE NEWS

COURT HOUSE, MAYS LANDING, N. J., Dec. 6 (I. N. S.)—Shortly after the defense had rested its case in the Lillendahl murder trial today, the prosecution created a furor of excitement in the court room which acted as a bombshell to the defense case, when Harry S. Sanderson, State's witness, was recalled to the stand and positively identified Willis Beach, co-defendant with Mrs. Margaret Lillendahl, as the man he saw running away from the murder scene on September 15th.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6 (I. N. S.)—William A. Patton, retired assistant to the President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, died suddenly early today at his home in Radnor, Pa., Pennsylvania officials announced.

ENTERTAIN IN HONOR OF NIECE'S BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Singer Give Very Pleasing Affair

WAS TOTAL SURPRISE

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Singer, of Mill street, entertained a number of young folks at their home on Sunday night in honor of their niece, Esther's, sixteenth birthday.

Esther, who is the daughter of Mrs. Richard Singer, was very pleasantly surprised, when she returned from Philadelphia early Sunday evening and found a number of her friends awaiting her.

A delightful evening was spent playing various games, singing, dancing and reciting. At a late hour the guests were ushered to the dining room, where a sumptuous repast, consisting of a salad, sandwiches, coffee, cake, fruit, candy and nuts, were served.

The dining room was attractively decorated in blue and white crepe paper streamers which were draped from the four corners to the center of the room and over the dome light. A large star containing the initials "E. S." also made of crepe paper, hung on the wall. The table was set for twenty guests and a large, white basket of white and orchid chrysanthemums was placed in the center of the table.

A large birthday cake, beautifully decorated with white icing, and a basket of fruit, were also among the table decorations. Each guest received a pencil, at the top of which was a lady's head.

The guests then departed for their homes, after spending a most enjoyable evening and wishing Esther many more happy birthdays. Esther was the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

GROWTH OF RADIO TO BE SHOWN IN FILMS

Interesting Program Arranged For Fathers' Association Meeting

TO ELECT OFFICERS

A most interesting program has been arranged for the meeting of the Fathers' Association, which is to be held in the high school auditorium on Thursday evening of this week.

Several reels of moving pictures will be shown, which will exhibit the growth and development of the radio industry. Following the pictures there will be an address by Rev. Samuel Steinmetz, of Trenton. Rev. Steinmetz has a wonderful reputation as a public speaker, and those who are fortunate enough to hear him will be fully repaid.

The annual election of officers will take place at this meeting. Each member who attends is requested to bring with him some toy, which will be suitable to be given to small children at Christmas. These toys will be turned over to the Y. W. girls, to be distributed at their Christmas party.

Here of late a lot of thieves has been going on in and around the high school building, and several people have reported that articles have been stolen from their cars while parked in front of the building. To give the public better protection, the school board has decided to allow the cars to be parked inside the school yard. Entrance will be through the gates on Harrison street, near Wilson avenue. An effort will be made to have some boys from the high school watch the cars.

This new ruling of the school board regarding the parking of cars within the school yard will go into effect tonight, so that the people attending the minstrel show to be given by the Fathers' Association may have the privilege of parking their cars, where they will be safe.

Pre-Christmas Card Party In St. Mark's Hall Tonight

A pre-Christmas card party will be held tonight in Saint Mark's School Hall at 8.30 in aid of the high school tuition fund. This promises to be one of the biggest affairs of the current season. A large number of prizes have been secured by those in charge and patrons are assured of a choice selection.

Refreshments also will be served. The decorations are elaborate and in good taste. The hostesses for the affair are Mrs. John Goslin, Mrs. Bernard McGee and Miss Sarah Rafferty.

POSTOFFICE URGES EARLY MAILING OF CHRISTMAS PARCELS

Postmaster C. G. Young Says Mail Should Be Sent Early

COMPILES A SCHEDULE

Annual Slogan Is Unchanged: "Mail Your Packages Now"

"Mail your Christmas packages early and often."

Again the Postoffice Department makes its yearly appeal for early mailing of holiday gifts to expedite delivery and take the burden from the parcel-post division on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day.

Postmaster Clarence G. Young, of Bristol, points out that early mailing prevents congestion and helps avoid delay and possible damage to gift packages.

"Ten days before Christmas," Postmaster Young reminds, "parcel-post mail increases by leaps and bounds until it reaches from 300 to 600 per cent. over that handled during the normal seasons. Added to this congestion is the increase in letter mail and cards containing greeting messages."

"If these letters and parcels were brought to the postoffice a few days before Christmas, the office, as large as it is, would be completely buried beneath the great volume of mail and the handling of such a quantity at one time would be an impossible task."

"You can therefore see the importance of early mailing in order to eventually distribute the additional mail posted and permit its satisfactory delivery over a given number of days."

"And if you care a 'rap' about your Christmas gifts, wrap with care and properly address your packages."

A mailing schedule has been prepared for distant cities, as follows:

For California and the Far West, Tuesday, December 13.

For Rocky Mountain States, Wednesday, December 14.

For other states of Middle West, Thursday, December 15.

For Southern States, Friday, December 16.

For Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Kentucky, Saturday, December 17.

For New England States, Monday, December 19.

For Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, Monday, December 19.

For New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Tuesday, December 20.

For Philadelphia city (parcel-post), Tuesday, December 20.

Christmas postals and letters for delivery in Philadelphia, on or before Tuesday, December 20.

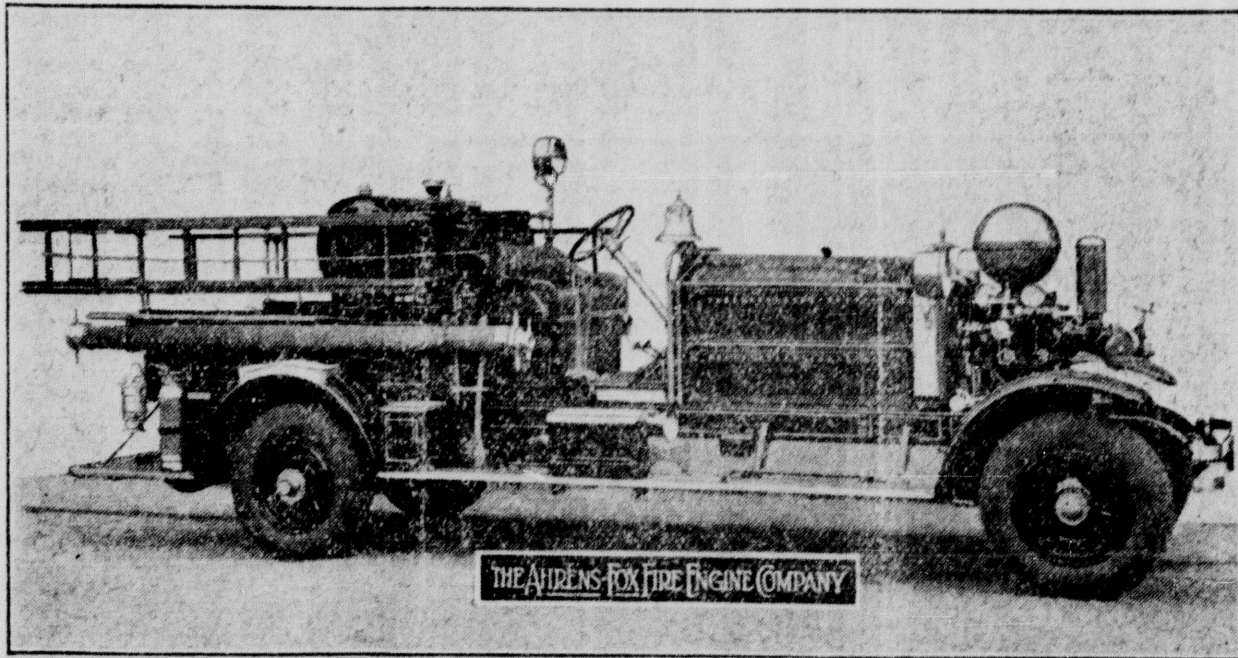

STATE NEWS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 6 (I. N. S.)—Motorists who fail to comply with the new state law requiring a windshield wiper to clear rain and snow, face a fine of $5, or three days in jail, Benjamin Eynon, motor vehicle registrar, pointed out today. The same penalty applies to motorists who fail to keep the device in working order.

"Not a few accidents," said Eynon, "are due to the failure of motorists to equip their vehicles with a device for removing rain and snow from the windshield, or to keep such device in working order."

Arrest Youth On Charge Of Attempted Murder

Charged with attempting to kill his father last night, William Walton, 24 years old, of near Pineville, Bucks County, was arrested by Patrolman E. K. Pope, of the Doylestown State Highway Patrol.

The intended victim, George Walton, returned from work in the early evening and walked upstairs to go to his room on the second floor. As he reached the top step, police say, the son opened the door of his room and fired a twelve-gauge shotgun at him in the dark, one of the shots wounding him slightly in the forehead.

The State Highway Patrol headquarters at Doylestown was notified and Patrolman Pope was sent to the home to investigate. He arrested the youth on a charge of atrocious assault and battery with intent to kill. The father also was taken into custody and both were taken to the Doylestown jail, where they will be questioned today.

After his arrest the younger Walton told Patrolman Pope that his father had been criminally assaulting his younger sister and that he tried to kill him to protect her. Mrs. Walton is said to have corroborated the statement of her son.

Walton and his son are employed in a rendering establishment near Pineville.

FATHER'S ASSOCIATION TO GIVE PERFORMANCE

Original Afterpart To Be Staged At Minstrel Tonight

EXCELLENT PROGRAM

The members of the Fathers' Association have planned a most original afterpart which will be presented in connection with the third annual show tonight and tomorrow night in the high school auditorium.

The minstrel program contains a number of snappy songs by well-known soloists, and the selections by the entire ensemble are sure to please. The afterpart is entitled "A Convention of Pappas," and the characters taken by the participants follow:

Jack Hardesty, who has a fashionable wife and a "young hopeful," Thomas Douglass; Noah Tackleton, who tends baby while his wife serves as constable, Roy F. Fry; Walker, who travels for the "National Pappas' Protective Association," organizing branches, Clarence Spohn; Colonel Hightower, married but childless, full of ideas on training children—pompous man, Andrew MacArthur; Emerson Benedict, bachelor and man of ideas, who has devoted much time and study to his theories on the care of children, Frank S. Parr; Billy Cornell, married and glad of it, Russell Johnson; Cholly Birdseye, just married, doncher know, Henry Blishe; Mike, janitor, Frank B. Phipps; screeching baby, John H. Brehm.

The orchestra for the occasion consists of: Mrs. M. D. Weagley, piano; Joseph Lanza, violin; J. W. Hardy, saxophone; and Harold Hanson, drums.

GAS MASK DEMONSTRATED TO FIRE SCHOOL CLASS

Chief Simmler and Associates Conduct Very Interesting Class

ABOUT 125 ATTEND

With Battalion Chief Simmler directing operations, Captain Krause and Lieutenant Garner instructed the largest class ever to attend the fire school last night in the use of the gas mask, fighting fire from a ladder with hose attached at window level, rope tying at chimneys and skylights, and various seemingly insignificant wrinkles which mean a whole lot in an emergency.

The gas mask drill was watched with keen interest by the 125 members present, and the various signals the masked fireman gives to his brother at the end of the line to let him know just where he is and what condition he is in being demonstrated in a very intelligent manner by the instructors, who explained fully the reason for doing everything just so, and showing what would happen if a thing was not done the right way. Speed, with safety, appears to be the motto of the Philadelphia fire school instructors.

Last night's instruction took on the aspects of a practical rather than a theoretical class, many members volunteering to perform the various drills as instructed by Chief Simmler and his associates, who seemed well pleased with the manner in which the class showed its interest and willingness to grasp all the fire-fighting knowledge it possibly could.

Chief Simmler announced that in the near future a series of outdoor drills will take place.

THE NEW FORD

Henry Ford has usurped the place of Barnum as the world's greatest showman of all ages. Barnum had them coming from miles around but he never had an entire nation eagerly awaiting a glimpse of what he had to offer.

There may be other manufacturers who could afford to suspend production for months while spending a hundred millions or more for installation of new machinery and development of a new product, but the country has yet to see the color of the hair of another who can compel the world to stand on tiptoe to get a peek at what he is producing, beg and plead for information concerning it, print hundreds of columns guessing about it and make it the topic of conversation in business, financial, social and sporting circles.

It is an interesting commentary on the growth of the automobile industry that in the relatively short space of time since Ford entered it it should have taken its place with steel and the railroads as a business barometer. Only a nation unprecedentedly rich could support such a market.

The new Ford car has not been a source of concern for the rest of the industry. Rather, other makers have looked forward to its appearance in the belief that it will stimulate sales for all makes of automobiles. It is not to be denied that many persons have deferred buying a new car until the new Ford product appeared. Manufacturers are now predicting a consumptive capacity that will tax the production of the whole industry when the Ford factories are again going at full blast.

Everybody is interested in automobiles and in the continued prosperity of the automobile industry. Employing hundreds of thousands of men, it and its allied industries produce a large part of the country's wealth.

WHEN EVERYONE TALKS PEACE

A complete assortment of plans and schemes to end war by treaties, leagues and agreements are waved aside by President Coolidge as so much waste paper not worth the sorting. The president is not one of those so lacking in understanding of human shortcomings as to believe there is a short cut to permanent world peace.

When eternal and universal peace comes it will not be by treaty or other international agreement. It may as well be admitted that where there is a disposition to go to war no international agreements will prevent hostilities. Where the controlling majority would rather fight than arbitrate nothing can keep it from fighting.

So schooled are European nations in violating treaties that no one could convince them the American people as a whole would not tolerate such a breach of contract by their government. In the opinion of many, treaties are made to be broken. The American people have never said what they would do if surrounded by powerful and belligerent nations. It is easy for a country with its back to the wall to regard a treaty as a scrap of paper.

The president's contempt for peace plans should not be construed as arguing that he does not appreciate the salutary effect of peace talk. Plans to outlaw war, in that they tend to strengthen the will to peace, serve a useful purpose. The more minds centered on peace the fewer minds there will be to concoct more wars.

SYNOPSIS
Fabien, good and handsome youth of France, trains for the priesthood; but meets and loves Nana Lescaut, beautiful orphan, whose rascally brother, realizing her worldly value, barbers her for gold to Raviro, rich connoisseur of women. Fabien saves her and carries her off to Paris, where they live happily together. Nana's brother steals her for Raviro; she escapes, and searches vainly for Fabien. Circumstances force her to surrender to Raviro. Later, hearing she frequents a gambling place, Fabien goes there and utters while waiting for her.

"Yes," Fabien managed to reply with great effort. Not that he cared to play, but it was the quickest way to end the situation. The money would be lost and he would not have to pick it up and store it in his pockets.

Fabien was bored. The pleasant anticipation of seeing Nana had been crushed and he was more heartless than ever before. The continued conversation about Nana fascinated him, in a strange way, and he listened while a woman whose love for jewels was very apparent said:

"I wonder if the old cabbage will buy Nana that Kasha emerald she has set her heart on?"

Nana replied cattily, "Trust her! If she works that baby stare on De Raviro he will go out and buy her the left hand of the Seine!"

Fabien's face grew ghastlier with each word that Nana uttered and it was a great effort for him to refrain from choking her.

Too bad that Nana did not know how cruelly she was hurting the youth she had sworn to torture. But she did not think of a possible connection between Nana and the stranger and therefore, did not have the satisfaction of witnessing his discomfiture.

Azain the hall stopped at eighteen. This time Fabien mechanically stacked the gold on the table and filled his pockets, but he had lost all desire for money as Nana would not share it with him. Eager to get away from the gossiping women who were slandering Nana's name, Fabien turned away, disgusted with the whole beastly place and life in general. But he had not taken a step before the great entrance doors at the head of the stairs were opened and he saw—Nana! Nana, standing alone, framed in the enormous arched entrance. She was so divinely beautiful that Fabien could not still the rising tumult in his heart. It seemed ages since he had seen her and with every fiber of his being he longed to rush forward and take her in his arms. Even at the distance that separated them her beauty appeared more radiantly sweet and adorably feminine than ever before.

The sight of Nana's exquisite presence had blotted from Fabien's mind the current rumor's defaming her character. He stood as one before a deity, his hungry heart taking new life from her very presence. Suddenly his whole attitude changed. His hands clenched and the happiness faded from his face leaving it white and tense with cruel drawn lines that made him appear ten years older. The Comte De Raviro had appeared at her side. She had been waiting for him.

CHAPTER XII
Whispers announcing Nana's arrival spread through the room like a breeze; the kind that was ill for the women and good for the men; for Nana had become the idol of Paris night life. Her incomparable beauty, so youthful and charming, had captivated the hearts of all men who beheld her and she had unconsciously set a style for envious women who tried in vain to make themselves as attractive.

LEWISTOWN, Pa., Dec. 6 (I.N.S.)—The Mann's Narrows Viaduct will be opened to the public on December 6. The Lewistown & Reedsville Electric Railway Company is now engaged in laying tracks with a view to resuming service between Burnham Junction and Reedsville. This territory has been covered by automobile bus for the last several months.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 6 (I.N.S.)—Though November was "No Accident Month," there were 102 deaths from accidents in Allegheny county, and this number does not include the 23 victims of the Equitable Gas Company explosion near two automobile victims, whose deaths have not yet been investigated by the coroner. The death toll is about the same as for the corresponding period a year ago.

GEORGIA TECH BEST FOOTBALL TEAM OF YEAR

By Davis J. Walsh
I. N. S. Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Georgia Tech is one of the best, if not the best football team in America today. This writer, who never knows what he is talking about anyhow, might as well make this crack as any other and in addition to that, he just can't help himself. After he saw Tech beat Georgia on Saturday, this unbeaten and untied Georgia team, he can come to no other conclusion. He has seen Notre Dame; he had seen the Army and both are generally understood to be fair aggregations, but he had seen no blocking, he had seen no tackling in the line until he saw Tech beat Georgia.

I am afraid that we will have to revise all our judgments after a game such as Tech played three days ago. For example, to step ourselves out and pick all American teams and Tech merely had a fighting chance for this dishonorable mention for something. Today, Tech can't miss having several candidates because Tech deserves all of them or both or several. Offhand I would name a certain Mr. Thomason who is running for a touchdown, showed a change of pace such as they credit to Jim Thorpe, Eddie Mahan and other immortals. I swear that if a man can do a thing like that once, he is good for a hundred return engagements. They either have "it" or they haven't and I'm afraid that Mr. Thomason, as guilty, as charged.

I also liked the way Durant, not an automobile just a quarterback, ran his team. He could have made mistakes but he didn't. The two tackles and Crowley played football such as I would demand if I were a head coach, and somehow, the boys have been able to resist getting me up to and including that point.

In comparison, we have the all-Americans from Georgia to consider. For example Georgia is understood to have employed two ends this year and the funny thing was that both of them were had on Saturday.

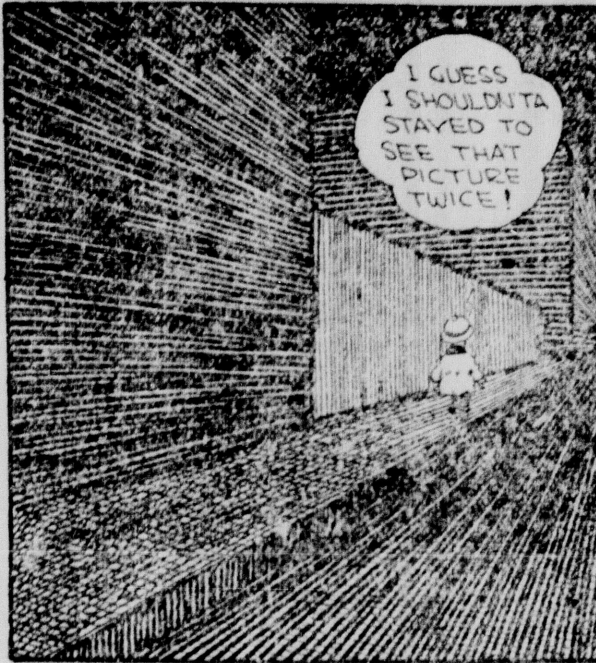

Maybe I am making one of my several mistakes in declaring that they were bad. What I mean is that they weren't good. Yet there was not an all-American team in the country which did not include either Nash or Shiver and I swear again, being profane by instinct and environment, that I saw a better end play football and his name is Crowley.

What I am driving at is this: That I am for discretion and posterity in the great popular rush to select all-American teams before the members thereof can possibly be determined.

BURNHAM, Pa., Dec. 6 (I.N.S.)—Forty-five victories and not a single defeat over a two-year period is the record of the local high school basketball team and it has met some of the strongest aggregations in Central Pennsylvania. The team is looking for some strong team to trounce.

I knelt to her enthroned upon a purple hill; I sang to her beside a joyous rill That tinkled clear. I placed a crown upon a brow of ivory still And from her chalice drank my fill Of wine and tear.

She ran before me, frightened, till at last I found Her long hair trailing on the ground Of late November. And from her bell-like throat a weary sound And roses where the breasts were round. I am December.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 6 (I.N.S.)—Washington county's jail will continue to serve as a penal institution and will not be converted into an attractive boarding house, its directors announced, in effect, in rejecting the proposed menu of the state welfare board.

The welfare board objected to the breakfast menu of "cut" molasses, un-buttered bread and black coffee, which the jail board considers quite all right.

"Meals suggested by the welfare board," said one jail authority, "would make the county jail an attractive boarding house for many of our citizens."

FOR THE BEST OF GOOD REASONS
BETTER TASTE!

Familiarity breeds TRUST

Contrary to the old adage, familiarity with some things breeds trust. Advertised products, for instance. The trade-names and firm-names you see regularly in this paper, by reason of their very continuity, kindle familiarity first and then confidence. These are the names that leap to your lips in market-places.

Familiarity of this sort is a thing to be cultivated. The more you know about an advertiser and his wares, the more you are able intelligently to invest the family outlay for the necessities of life. This truth is self-evident.

Read the advertisements in this paper. Read them as carefully as you would read something you had to sign your name to. They will save your shopping time and your shopping dollars. Go into the stores with your mind more than half made up as to what you want and what you will have to pay.

Familiarity with known goods breeds contempt for the unknown. Advertising begets familiarity.
